NEW DIGITAL RESOURCES

You may have already used Overdrive eBooks or audiobooks from the library, but now we have lots more in the way of digital resources - Enki, Zinio, Indieflix, and hoopla. Just go to the library's website (www.hm-lib.org), and click on the Digital Books and Media page to access all of these resources.

We expanded our eBook offerings with Enki. Enki has small press books, children's books, and lots of nonfiction.

Through Zinio, we provide magazines that you can view on your tablet or computer. Magazines issues are available instantly, and can be kept indefinitely.

Indieflix has film festival type movies — shorts, features, documentaries and more. Watch films from your mobile device or computer.

We are very excited about hoopla. For the first time we are able to offer music albums to our patrons - online!

You can also check out DVDs, movies, and audiobooks. There are no waiting lists and no overdue charges. Ask a librarian for information on any of these wonderful resources.

A Message From the President

Good things are happening

We have all been touched by a library. For many people a public library represents hope and opportunity. For me personally, my library was the birth of curiosity and wonder. Communities have challenges and Carmel Library can be a powerful agent of positive change.

As the new President of the Carmel Public Library Foundation I have a profound respect for the impact libraries can make. Libraries create a sense of wonder about combined experiences and places to visit. I was an avid reader as a child and the library in Bartlesville, Oklahoma was my home away from home.

Today, the Carmel Public Library Foundation aims to strengthen the role Carmel Library plays on the Central Coast by providing dedicated leadership and relevant resources for people of all ages.

The Library Foundation has two main goals: goal one is to maintain strong relationships with our residents and visitors, municipal partners, local businesses, civic groups and non-profits, and, key to our mission, our generous donors and supporters. Strong relationships promote civility, collaboration, education, and health and well-being.

Mayor Jason Burnett and Board President Ben Heinrich celebrate the positive energy of our public-private partnership.

Goal two involves raising funds that create access to materials, resources and technology that advance positive thinking, innovation, collaboration and exploration. Positive community engagement is vital.

As President, I look forward to getting to know you, and to hearing from you what's important and what the Library can do for our community. We have a wonderful team of board directors who are dedicated to furthering the foundation's mission. Join us for a program and check out all the excellent resources. Good things are happening all year long.

Thank you. All of this is possible because of your generous support. ■

—BEN HEINRICH
